"... no journal other than Studies accepts articles across the full range of interests in interdisciplinary history and philosophy of science. Historians of science... would thus be well advised to scan its contents on a regular basis."
Rachel Laudan in Isis, Volume 81, Number 2, 1990

Studies in History and Philosophy of Science is essential reading for students and teachers concerned with the historical, social and intellectual contexts of the sciences and with their methodology and epistemology. The journal particularly encourages studies which integrate philosophical, historical and sociological considerations. Its orientation is international, with contributions from a wide range of cultural perspectives. Papers published are of the highest scholarly quality. Since the journal's inception it has proved an invaluable source both for reflective scientists and for workers in the history, philosophy and sociology of science.
In 1993 Studies will be launching a new section entitled Studies in History and Philosophy of Modern Physics to be edited by Michael Redhead and Peter Galison. This section will cover the history, philosophy and sociology of physics from the mid nineteenth century to the present.
